

- Get to a place that is safe.
- Take care of yourself by seeking medical attention.
- If you get medical attention, you should know the California law requires the incident to be reported to law enforcement.
- If you choose to report the assault, remember that showering, bathing, or douching could destroy valuable evidence that could be used in courtroom proceedings.
- Consider getting counseling to help you deal with trauma caused by the rape.

SURVIVING SEXUAL ASSAULT

FACTS AND PREVENTION SERVICES

IT CAN HAPPEN TO ANYONE... IT CAN BE COMMITTED BY SOMEONE YOU KNOW.

THE TRUTH ABOUT RAPE

Rape is generally defined as forced sexual intercourse. It is a crime of violence where the victim is often overpowered by the use of force or threat. In this pamphlet, the term "rape" is used to refer to any type of sexual assault, such as attempted rape, oral copulation, sodomy, and sexual battery. All types of sexual assaults are against the law.

- One of our every 4 women and one out of every 6 men will be sexually assaulted in their lifetime.
- Rape can happen to anyone - teens, grandmothers, babies, working women, boys, mothers and men.
- A rapist can be anyone - neighbor, classmate, delivery person, family member, stranger, or trusted friend.
- Rape is an act of violence, using sex to hurt, humiliate, degrade and control. It is a violent, brutal, terrifying experience.
- No one "asks to be raped". If you are raped, it is NOT YOUR FAULT.
- Date and/or acquaintance rape occurs when another person forces you to have unwanted sex, such as sexual touches, penetration, or forcing or tricking you into posing for sexual explicit photographs.

PREVENTION TIPS

Be aware of what's happening around you. Look to your sides and in back of you, not just in front of you.

Trust your instincts. If you feel something isn't right or don't feel safe, do something about it - get out of the area or situation, call someone to be with you.

COMMON SENSE INDOORS

- Make sure all doors and windows have deadbolt locks and use them.
- Keep entrances well lighted. A peephole in the door is a good safety measure.
- Never open your door to a stranger. If someone says they need to make an emergency phone call, have the person wait outside while you make the call.
- Check identification of sales and service persons before letting them into the house. Have them wait outside while you call their office to verify their identity.
- Use an initial and last name on mailboxes. This makes it less obvious that you are a female and live alone.
- If you find a door or window open or broken when you come home, don't go in. The intruder could still be inside.

COMMON SENSE OUTDOORS

- Avoid walking or jogging alone, especially at night. Stay in well traveled, well lighted areas.
- Wear clothes and shoes that give you freedom of movement. You may be in a situation where you need to run.
- Be careful of anyone in a car who asks you for directions - if you answer, keep your distance so you can't be pulled into the car.

- Have your keys ready before you reach the door home, work, or car. Fumbling in your purse with your head down puts you in a vulnerable position.
- If you think someone is following you, don't be embarrassed to turn around and check. Then do whatever you need to do - run, scream, cross the street, get to an area with lights and people around.

CAR SENSE

- Always lock your car - when you get in and when you get out. Look around you and in the back seat before you get in.
- Park in areas that will be well lighted and well traveled at the time you will return to your car.
- If your car breaks down, lift the hood, get back inside, lock the doors and turn on your flasher lights. Use a Call Police banner or flares if you have them. If someone stops and offers to help, roll the window down slightly, ask the person to call the police, a friend, or a tow service for you and stay inside your car.
- If your vehicle breaks down in a desolate area, leave the vehicle and go to a place of concealment (behind bushes or culvert until help arrives).

FOR THE SURVIVOR IF YOU ARE RAPED...

- Get support from a friend, family member, counselor or call the local rape crisis hotline. It's important and helpful for you to talk with someone about what happened. Call the Mountain View Police Department at 911 or any other police agency.
